Amanda Mills Carmichael, former graduate assistant for Counseling and Health Services at Birmingham-Southern College, was the recipient of the BSC Henry C. Randall Outstanding Sesquicentennial quiz—Name this former Hilltop art professor and (if you’re one of the first five to reply) win a prize—a BSC pen and notebook—and an assignment to record your favorite memory of a Birmingham-Southern professor for our SesquiCelebration pages. Or skip the quiz, and just send a few paragraphs on the topic to chagood@bsc.edu. We know the good stories are out there, and we know you can tell them. A few of the best may appear in the next issue of ‘Southern—and more on the Alumni web page—as we continue to celebrate our Sesquicentennial year.
