

Forward, Ever

Don Brown (signing a book at Alumni Reunion 2005 for Aubrey Barnard '57) began a long journey six years ago. It was a trip back in time that would reveal to him the storied, yet sometimes challenging, history of one of the nation's most distinguished liberal arts colleges. He would pore over countless newspapers and other archives, interview dozens of people, listen to countless stories, collect hundreds of photographs. His task was to put all that he read, heard, and collected into the most comprehensive history of Birmingham-Southern College ever assembled. In early April 2005, the 1958 BSC graduate and award-winning career journalist finally held in his hands the fruits of his labors. Forward, Ever: Birmingham-Southern College at its Sesquicentennial was published and for sale. Learn more about Don Brown's journey into the college's history in the next issue of Southern magazine. Find out more about Forward, Ever and how to purchase your copy starting on page 2 of this issue.
